

HIGH CARD FLUSH

GAMING GUIDE

HIGH CARD FLUSH

High card flush is a poker-based game that allows you to compete against the dealer as well as bonus pay tables.

Each player and the dealer will receive seven cards. The object of the game is to play the most cards of the same suit against the dealer. The more cards in your flush the more you can raise! You may fold or bet one to three times your ante depending on the number of cards in your flush. If you receive a two, three or four card flush, and wish to play your hand, you must make a raise that is equal to your ante. With a five card flush you can raise 2 times your ante and with a six or seven card flush you can raise 3 times your ante. The dealer will qualify with a three card flush, nine high. If the dealer does not qualify, ante is paid 1 to 1 and all raises push.

Prior to placing a raise wager, players are required to discard any cards not included in the flush with the most cards. Discards are placed face down on the table in the area adjacent to the straight flush wager spot, with one exception. Players who are discarding a straight flush and have placed a straight flush wager are required to discard their cards face up in the area adjacent to the straight flush wager. This is to alert the dealer to their winning straight flush wager. Players then place their cards with the flush containing the most cards face down on the raise wager spot and place their raise wager on the cards. Additionally, if a player chooses to fold their hand prior to placing a raise wager but would still like to be paid for a straight flush wager, the player must discard their cards face up on the table. There is no recourse for players who discard the wrong cards.
