Race #7

(4) IRONY OF REALITY

This mare is a beast here on the PID strip. 6/7 ITM here, 4 of those are wins. Her last two starts at PID, she ran with very tough company, (Darcy Mae and Nantucket Red) and tonight she should get a little bit of a softer field. There is plenty of speed in this race and her style sets up perfectly to close in on this bunch. With the recent track bias being in favor of closers, I am feeling good about her chances here in the feature race this evening.

SPOT PLAY

Race # 5

(7) ART FORM

This filly ships in to PID after running the beginning of her career on the Eastern PA circuit. A winner first out, she ran in higher level races her next two starts and ran evenly. She drops in here to a softer spot and looks to clear the N2L condition tonight. A nonstarter so far on the Tapeta, I have no worries with her being by Temple City, as they like this surface, and with her out of a Royal Academy mare, it only adds to my confidence.
