Race #4

(7) CAMBIUM

This horse comes into this race after scratching out of last night's 3rd. She is going to shorten the distance by $\frac{1}{2}$ a furlong, and look to close the gap, by coming off the pace, (Her style of racing) this evening. He is 6/9 ITM here at PID, and drops down to the bottom level Maiden Claiming. She looked to be the winner last night in the \$7,500 level, but looks even better here for \$5k, especially with the "Magic Man" Mario Pino on her back against this group.

SPOT PLAY OF THE DAY

Race # 5

(8) SAMURAI ZIP

This class older gelding, just keeps on ticking here at PID. He's perfect ITM here at the local strip, and was beat a mere length against a very good and improving Smoky Blues, who has won three in a row as of last night, against an ultra-tough group of horses in the $25k Starter. He is 26/39 ITM lifetime at PID. With good tactical speed he should lay just off of the pace this evening.
