Best Bet of the Day

Race #6

(1) DAKOTA DANCER

A solid run in the Gem City, only beaten a half a length after doing all the dirty work on the front end, regardless she did earn blacktype that afternoon. That extra 1/16th was the killer that day, and now this afternoon she finds herself in a much softer spot and at a slightly shorter distance. She is by far the most accomplished runner in this group, and if she can replicate that last race again today, the remainder of this group will all be running for second.

Spot Play of Day

(5) He's a Mess

A solid second last race, in the Open 1X, he showed that he belonged against that group. In that event he was beat by a very rapidly improving and accomplished runner in Valentine Bug, and interestingly enough, that is his full Brother. He possesses good tactical speed which will be very useful in today's race. It looks as if Rio Abajo will be running and gunning on the front end, and may not be overly fond of this distance, and in contrast He's a Mess looks to relish it.
